Padmaja, Coordinator of Professional Societies,Heads of various departments, the elected Executive Body & the student members of ISTE.

Numero-Uno:

Following the inaugural, Numero-Uno a symposium of three events namely Engineers solution, B-Plan and Google it!

Engineer's solution: A technical event with the theme of 'engineering with a purpose'. The participants addressed various current socio economic or environmental problems and presented a technical solution to each of them with the help of PPTs and models (working/non-working).

1. B-Plan: A business management event was to bring about entrepreneurship skills of the participant. The participants elaborately explained the B-Plan of the proposed business (Ex; Dairy farm, establishment of educational institutes etc) .The presentations were detailed plans includes Feasibility report, detailed project report consists of Study of Demand, financial requirements, manpower requirements and machines   requirements   and   sustainability   plan   etc

GOOGLE it: On the spot event wherein the participants were given a logo of various institutions and organisations ,they have to google it and identify them. This event tested the spontaneity and accuracy of the participant and there was a huge response.

It provided the students the best platform to apply their technical knowledge and to test their entrepreneur skills. The exposition let the students showcase their innovative and educational technical models/PPTs. It enabled students to exhibit their creative technical talents to a wide audience and also get an opportunity to receive advice and critical analysis from faculty members and subject experts.

World In Frames:

This is a non-technical symposium of 2 events

Thru my Lens : A Photography events which gave a common platform for all the budding photographers to expose their talent of exploring world through their creativity. Diverse range of various types of photography like micro photography,still photography, 2 colours and so on are displayed which indeed led to a huge response from to students. The critics too, were impressed and inspired by the appreciable participation.

70 mm : The 70mm short film contest created a great opportunity to young and passionate film makers to showcase their skills in movie making taking up different and yet impressive story lines . There was a good number of viewers and the participants received huge amount of appraisement and valuable comments from the judging panel.

TechXpo:

A Technical Exposition, TechXpo-2013was held on 25th January 2012. TechXpo-2012 began with a simple but impressive opening by the Principal and a brief address to the gathering on the need for technical education in engineering. TechXpo consisted of two main categories of exhibits: Projects and Ideas. Projects were further sub-divided as: 'Physical Models', 'Working Models 'and 'Eco Models'. There were around 70 student teams from various departments of GITAM University.

The audiences were amazed to see the different innovative, informative and effective models that the students came up with. All the models involved a lot of effort, excellence and innovation like 'Self –sufficient Wheel chair, 'energy meter' , Energy from pines', 'Operating mouse with camera', 'Masers' 'Auto locking systems' and so on. The students and faculty of GITAM University on a large scale visited all the models displayed and enjoyed every bit of the event.

G-MUN

GITAM MODEL UNITED NATIONS (G-MUN) was the first of its kind in GITAM University. G-MUN brought students and faculty together from all the colleges of the University simulating the activities of the United Nations. It offered a unique opportunity to experience the challenges of international negotiation and diplomacy. The conference took tradition to a new level with numerous innovations designed to inculcate delegate experience. The event was open to both ISTE and NON-ISTE members of GIT.

The inaugural ceremony followed by the orientation session of GMUN was held at Mother Teresa auditorium, GITAM University on Wednesday 20th February and was graced by the chief guest Sri D.V.Subba Rao, an Indian economist , Central Banker and a Civil Servant. He was enthralled and appreciated the students for conducting and participating in such kind of international events like the G-MUN. The simulation sessions were conducted on Wednesday, 27th February

The stimulation sessions were conducted among five major commitees DISEC(Disarmament and International Security Committee) , UNHRC (United Nations Human Rights Council) , WHO (World Health Organisation) , Special Council on Prevention of Gender Crime, UNESCO (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization) with proper regulations as per the Models united nations involving experienced students and faculty directors and moderators and Prof.Y.Satyanayarana ,Director, School of Law acted as The Secretary General . Delegates were judged on their position papers. Presentation skills and Delegate attitude. All the five committees came up with appreciable and effective draft resolutions on the topics chosen. Over 500 Students from different Institutes participated with zeal and enthusiasm making this event a grand success, leaving a tremendous mark on history for the ISTE Student chapter.

THE MAZAGINE: The ISTE Student Chapter, GIT conducted an online Magazine contest on 23rd of March, 2013. The event was an amalgam of several events –The Writer, The Poet and The Artist. These events helped enhance one's way of exhibiting ideas and creativity in painting, poetry and literature.
