

Carnival Version 1.0:

Objective of the Carnival: An event which brings the talent of students from all the institutes of the University on a single platform.

Theme: 100% waste managing system.

Outcome of the Carnival: Identified outcomes of the Carnival.

- A single platform for all the students of the University to work and compete with each other.
- Promoted inter-disciplinary team work and co-ordination.
- Vision of GUSAC to all the institutes of GITAM University was introduced, thus enhancing student participation.

This was an exposure to the students of the University to equip them for an international event.

GUSAC CARNIVAL

13th & 14th March marked the most memorable day in the first ravishing year of GITAM UNIVERSITY SCIENCE & CENTER (GUSAC).

Following the motto GUSAC for all, the whole GITAM University witnessed its first unified carnival that helped integrating all the institutions with more than 3500 students actively participating in various events. With about 40 events, the students had the time of their life. The events basically focused on unleashing the talents of students of various branches. The two day carnival with various events and workshops ended with the prize distribution ceremony that was followed by a splendid cultural night. It was surely a memoranle experience for the students and we are looking forward to another Carnival with more zeal and enthusiasm.

Competitions at GUSAC

GUSAC starts its first set of competitions by covering technical and non-technical aspects of life. The first 3 events which were organized were

- ❖ ROVER MANIA
- ❖ COMPETITION CREATIVITY
- ❖ ARTICLE COMPETITION

GUSAC received overwhelming response for all the 3 events. These events were organized to pull out the technical and creative talent from the students of GITAM University.

Rover Mania:

An event was organized by team GUSAC on 17th September to unleash the basic robotics talent in them. In this event the students were asked to make an all terrain vehicle which could travel through different terrains. An arena was made to judge these rovers and arena covered all terrain categories.

There were 32 teams which registered for the event and there was a display of various kinds Rovers with different ideas put into them. The students who were selected in Round 1 moved to round 2 to beat the state of the art arena.

Competition Creativity:

It's 2011 and in this competing world creativity is the necessity. Some are born with it and some develop it in their life. It is our duty to provide them with a scope to showcase it and GUSAC was the best platform to give that scope. Team GUSAC organized Competition Creativity, where students showcased their talents like photography, painting, arts and all creative talents under the umbrella.

GUSAC received overwhelming response, as we got many inputs from GITAM University in fields of photography and painting.

Article Competition:

It is said that writing is mutiny against one's own destiny. In this creative world writing plays an important role in creative and technical writing. GUSAC gives scope for GITAMITES to pen down their literary talent and produce some prolific articles out of them. GUSAC organized Article Competition, where students were asked to submit articles on any creative topic under the umbrella.

It was enthralling to see such beautiful articles by the students of GITAM University. Some of the award winning articles were

1. Paths of Glory.....Levels of Satisfaction.

The day I was born, my mom & dad were very delighted to see a beautiful me. I started growing, walking, running, laughing, crying, and going to school. My mom and dad expected a big me. Seeing me happy, they expected to see still happier me, forgoing their happiness. I am becoming bold, to see the big world around me. One step of mine towards the Paths of Glory is hundred steps away from my parents. They are satisfied at every delight of mine and they want to see me walking through the unlimited paths of glory. During this unending journey to create a world for myself, I realized, I am the world for my mom and dad. I understood that ever where I stand today, wherever I should be tomorrow, I should never forget them and that, their biggest Glory is the Satisfaction I give them, by being with them throughout their life and my life.

2. YOU ARE HERE FOR A REASON.....

I sat in the corner of a bench trying to fight back my tears and not going back to depression again. It was my first time stay at a hostel. I had to live all by myself which I hated the most. The worst part -my parents were leaving that day and as I was attending a class I couldn't meet them.

I was trying very hard to pay attention to what my lecturer said. I thought that would definitely help me forget my depression. It was my English class and English was one of my favourite subjects. As it was our first class our lecturer explained to us about the syllabus, the paper pattern and all. After she completed she took out a paper cutting and asked one of the students to read. As he read I understood that it was about 'peer pressure'. She explained to us about peer pressure and how not only students but everybody is affected by this. She warned us to keep away from such pressures which might end us up in trouble.

As the course of discussion continued she asked if anybody in the class was depressed. I did not dare to raise my hand. She told us that we were all young and must be cheerful and happy. She also said that if we had any problem we could approach her. There was a lot of positive energy around her. As the class ended, she left. It was the last hour. Somehow I felt I wanted to talk to her. So I gathered my courage and went to the class where she had asked us to meet in case of help.

I entered the class; I saw her sitting across in a chair. As she looked at me I asked her if I could come in. she nodded. I went inside. She instructed me to sit in the chair in front of her.

“Ma’am I kind of feel depressed”, I said. She asked me why and I broke into tears.” Ma’am I feel homesick”.” So are from the hostel?” She asked. I nodded. She then asked me to pull my chair closer to hers. She comforted me and said “I miss my parents too. But you know what you are here for a reason. I know it’s difficult but this is life”.” Ma’am I feel scared too. I don’t know if I can keep up academically”, I said.” Oh don’t worry about that it’s easy and you look quite smart too. I am sure you can do it.”

She looked at me and said, “It will all be fine, I have seen students who have groomed themselves very well in this college. I am available all the time. You can talk to me at any part of the day. You can have my number.” I nodded. Her comforting word was really helpful. I stood up, she smiled at me, I said thank you politely and left.

And that day believe me I didn’t cry at all. I think all I needed was the assurance that somebody was there for me even in the absence of my parents.

I would like to thank my ma’am for being there for me. And I am sure she will be there for me forever!

3. To The Love Of My Life (To whomsoever it may concern!).

It's been a while but I think you would have got used to my absence. But I want to remind you that I still haven't. It feels that it was just the other day when we used to walk hand in hand under the autumn trees when the bare branches showed new promise with the emergence of fresh green leaves as we trampled the ones that had been replaced. It was just yesterday is what my heart says to my mind when it recalls the slender figure of yours which used to fill my embrace and we used to travel through the seventh heaven. That too without using any narcotics! You see how charming and delirious your persona was. I want you to know that I cannot live without my drug. I cannot live without you.

It was just the other day when my forsaken heart had found the one which had touched its remotest corner with a single perception of sight. You see how enigmatic you are. I swear I cannot exist without the most prominent part of my life missing. It's only you who can empower my lifeless soul. It was just the other day when we had taken the oath and pledges to relive each and every moment we had shared. To engrave each and every moment of time we spend together onto the walls of our mind which would last to eternity. My mind is replete with your images all the time. Such is the aura of your personality.

I think I must have been erroneous or I might have done something which you dislike. I know you are hurt and I don't wish to enhance the magnitude of your present state of affairs by saying an obvious sorry. My heart writhes and anguishes in pain witnessing the trouble that you have been through all because of me.

I just wish to say that I love you from the bottom of my heart. Whatever the feelings be in the deepest trenches of my lonesome heart, it's for none but one. You guessed it right. It's you.

The autumn just passed on with the spring setting in. The trees and plants bustling with fresh sets of young green leaves ready to relive their ancestral journey. But I know you loved winter. You loved the snow with the geometrical snowflakes falling on your cheeks and chin as you used to let out a sigh of relief and revelry. I know I am not a person endowed with any kind of supernatural power but I could try better than the best to get you what your heart longed for.

Set me free and see the real me,

Let me go & I'll show,

For you the changes I can bring,

Even winter in spring,

I know that this thing I wrote above must make you think that I am really damn drunk or still overhung with my last night's misadventures. But it's not that way actually. My life is no more less than an automated machine following the instructions being fed into it. It's you who can fill in the hue, every color, every shade. All my instincts would return when you would be back.

It's in your eyes I see the light, the heat,

In your eyes I am complete,

It's you, who can fill me with the energy,

And rejuvenate and invigorate my being,

And make my existence worthwhile indeed,

You are the elixir of life,

The one I dearly need.

Words are falling short and they are bound to because describing you will never end as I have endless memories with you to cherish forever. I know you would really come back because I know that as much as I am missing you, you must be missing me too. I may not be able to see you again after I have finished writing but I believe fate and destiny are meant for the serendipitous meeting of those souls which are destined to live together. As they commonly say that they make those souls one in heaven but they are sent as two distinct individuals on earth. Nonetheless they find out a way to live together again. I know you would come to me. I know for sure because fortuitous things do happen and I firmly believe that it's the two of us who had been one in heaven and we would live together here on earth.

I can still recall your kohl rimmed hazel eyes whose depth was deeper than the deepest trenches of the ocean known to mankind, your hair smoother than the smoothest strand of silk gliding through my fingers, your smile which used to light up the entire me. You see I am completely dependent on you for my very existence and I want you back dearly because if you are not there for me now then I may not give life a second chance!

3 Gitam students win award

DC CORRESPONDENT
VISAKHAPATNAM, SEPT. 6:

A group of three mechanical engineering students from the Gitam University designed a rover which could travel under the water and pass through a specific path.

The design received a first prize in National Students Space Challenge conducted recently at IIT Kharagpur with the help of the Isro and the DRDO. The student team consisting of mechanical engineering second year students M. Charan, K. Avinash, and G. Kushal prepared this design with the help of senior students. The students from the same department Siddharth, P. Sri Chandan Reddy, Mr Rohan Devaraj were applauded by the Isro scientists for their water propulsion rocket.

Ankith, Mouna Chandra, and K. Sukesh from Mechanical and Manufacturing Management Department received certificate of appreciation for their Moon Bots design which can be used on a moonlike terrain and carry objects overcoming obstacles.

The civil engineering students Jaikanth and Siddharth prepared a design related to development and planning of a civilisation on moon for more than 10 years for 100 people. The Institute of Technology Principal Prof. D.Prasadarao, vice-principal Prof. M.R.S. Satyanarayana, and Student Affairs Director Prof. C. Dharmaraj appreciated the students for their achievement.

Speak-Up

An Initiative taken up by the Science Activity Centre to improve the communication and public speaking skills of the students at the campus. The session aimed at developing effective public speaking, in which members are assigned exercises to improve their speaking skills. Members learn by observation and practice, and hone their skills by listening to constructive suggestions followed by new public speaking exercises. These include:

- Oratory
- The use of gestures
- Control of the voice (inflection)
- Vocabulary, register, word choice
- Speaking notes, pitches
- Using humor
- Developing a relationship with the audience
- "Show of Hands Method"

The Speak-Up was a grand success with more than 100 people turning out to participate.

Friendly Seminars:

The very essence of science activity center lies in the flexibility it provides to the remaining students to learn new concepts. Seminars held by talented individuals regularly at GUSAC to develop the knowledge of co-students. These seminars are conducted on various topics i.e. both technical and non-technical on a regular basis.

Most of the seminars have several purpose. The seminars are designed for the purpose of education, such as a lecture, where the participants engage in the discussion of an academic subject for the aim of gaining a better insight into the subject. Some seminars are also motivational, the purpose is usually to inspire the students to become better people, or to work towards implementing the skills.

Some of the friendly seminars are a way for other like-minded people, to network and meet other students with similar interests. Such seminars provide opportunities for the co-students to make some potentially valuable contacts that can help them move to the next level in their careers or doing projects.
